Dulles Talk Set to Honor Late Brother

Cold Spring Harbor — Allen Dulles, former director of the Central Intelligence Agency, will be the first of four speakers here in a series of lecture honoring the memory of Dulles' brother, the late Secretary of State John Foster Dulles. His talk is scheduled for June 21.

The talks, to be called the John Foster Dulles Memorial lectures, will be held on the 50th anniversary of the Cold Spring Harbor Library. Library President Peter K. Simonds said each of the four speakers has been asked to give an off-the-cuff talk on current events in his field. All, including Dulles, have family ties with the community. The Dulles family used to live in Cold Spring Harbor.

Other Speakers

Other speakers participating in the 9 PM series of lectures in the library park on Main Street are: Francis P. T. Plimpton, deputy United States representative to the United Nations, on June 28; Rep. John V. Lindsay (R-Manhattan), July 12 and Milton Perlman, chief executive officer of the Grove Press, July 19.
